Turbocharge Your Product
Make it Interactive with a Cutaway

Pictures are intangible, models not quite the same as the real thing, exploded-view drawings often fail to show the actual component relationships, and the uncut product generally hides the most important internal features.

Cutaways are Interactive! Your audience can see and touch the features that make your product better than your competition. And in many cases, the unit can be turned or cycled by hand or motor, giving the user a better understanding of the function and design of your product.
“For years Navistar has counted on CalCo’s timely delivery and professional craftsmanship to help our marketing products look their very best... A consistent high quality product image is important to us as we grow globally and CalCo’s Euro finish assures us of the highest quality finish and image.”

— Robert Carso, Navistar Inc.

“We could not be any more pleased with the service that you have provided for us... our product line is diverse and I was pleasantly surprised when the crew effortlessly adapted to every different project... I take great satisfaction in the knowledge that every project would arrive meeting or exceeding our expectations. I want to particularly thank everyone involved in meeting a seemingly impossible deadline, and maintaining unerring craftsmanship...”

— Bryan Brumley, Kimray Inc.

“The spherical fitting was a huge hit with our people and the customers. It succeeded in garnering increased interest in the product, which has been out for several years. Our people praised it. Many people stopped to show their associates how such a fitting works... It was fun to watch peoples' faces when they rotated the piece and finally saw how this thing works.”

— Robert Abbott, Mueller Co.
